Autumn Term 1 Issue No.6

Dear Holy Trinity Community,

We have been celebrating Black History Month in a range of ways this October. Our Year 5 and 6 children enjoyed a lovely workshop with Joseph Coelho, the fantastic author of the Happy Here Anthology.

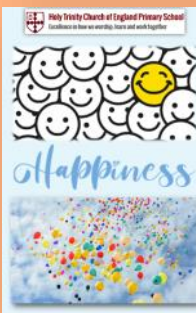

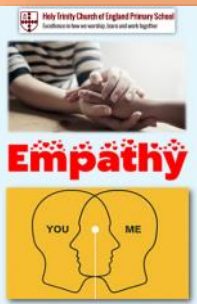

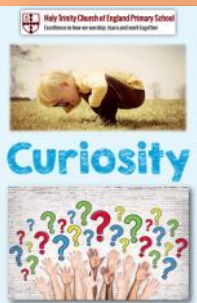

Each class has been focusing on a particular country with rich, cultural heritage this month - from Jamaica to Ghana. Food, music and art from these countries has come to Tulse Hill, and it's been a joy to behold.

Our children will also be learning about black athletes who have changed our world in their home learning project this month, and I know that so many of our children have the potential to achieve similar success in the sporting world having seen them in action on the playground recently!

International Day will be on Wednesday 3rd November. We will be holding our International Breakfast for parents and children, every class will present their focus country's culture in the hall with a 'journey around the world' and an international fashion show will be held in the afternoon. We can't wait to celebrate this event with you, and more details will be released next week.

Wishing you a lovely weekend,

Mr Winn

Science Update at Holy Trinity

We have been working extremely hard in science this Autumn term and have been enjoying different Science areas and environments. This has been happening alongside our updated Science values that we believe in. We think Science should be:

Real - take place out outdoors as well as classroom

Interactive - involve practical and hands on experiment

Curious - cover a range of topics to enable children to find things out themselves

Encourage - allow children opportunities to answer their own questions they may have.

Our science club is up and running. We are hoping to achieve the Primary Science Quality Mark in March next year!

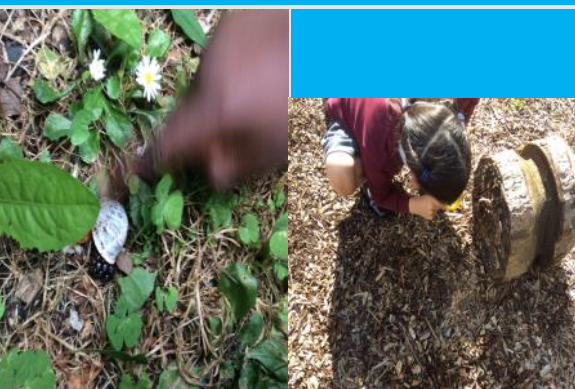

Children have exhibited their love for science during a variety of experiments planned and carried out by the members. We were lucky to have a parent joining us with one of our experiments.

Here are some pictures of some of the other learning that has been happening around our wonderful school:

Year 5 used their Science, Maths and Computing skills to find trends in data. So many links between subjects!

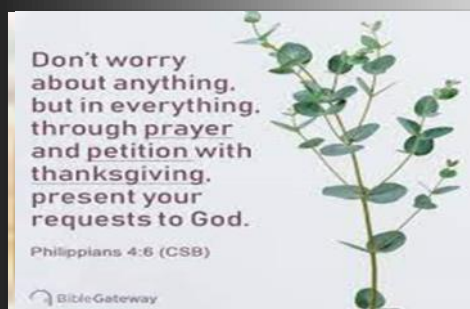

Year 2 used the fantastic outdoor area to go on a mini-beast hunt. There is a whole world beneath our feet!

Year 6 created periscopes, just like those used on submarines, to understand how light reflects to help us see.

Dear Lord,

We thank you for our physical health and that we can run around and enjoy ourselves at play and lunchtimes. Father help us to show empathy towards others as we do not always know of the worries they may be carrying. Teach us to be brave and share our problems with those that can help and be of support. Guide us in being good listeners and trustworthy friends.

May we show care towards each other and in doing so improve the mental health of the wonderful children and adults at Holy Trinity.

Amen

Fifa Gaming Scams

There is a lot of buzz amongst the Key stage 2 children about the new Fifa game coming soon.

This is a good time to discuss gameplay and the resulting emotions with children. It's easy for gaming to get out of hand: the excitement, the fun and the socialisation. I would recommend parents and carers read this excellent article by Andy Robertson:

<https://www.internetmatters.org/hub/expert-opinion/what-to-do-if-gaming-gets-out-of-hand/>

It is a good idea for parents and children to agree a time-limit for gaming as well as whether the child should be talking to other players on live services.

If they are talking with strangers while playing, do they know the risks and how to mitigate these?
