Summer Term | Issue No.29

Dear Holy Trinity Community,

This week our school received the wonderful news that we have been awarded the Primary Science Quality Mark.

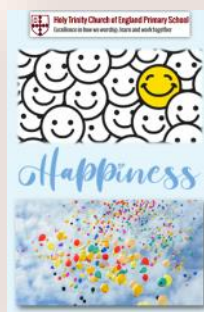

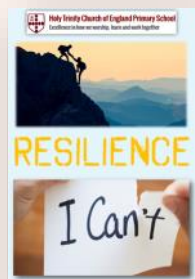

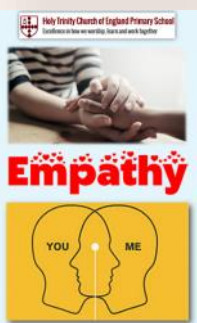

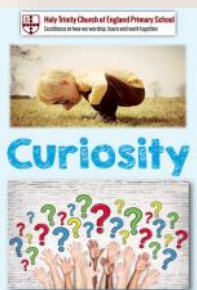

This Quality Mark celebrates our commitment to excellence in science teaching and learning. It ensures effective leadership of science, enables schools to work together to share good practice and is supported by professional development led by local experts.

Associate Professor Jane Turner, PSQM National Director, said "schools that have achieved a Primary Science Quality Mark have demonstrated a significant commitment to science teaching and learning, even at this challenging time for schools. The profile and quality of science in each awarded school is very high. Children are engaging with great science both in and outside the classroom, Developing positive attitudes towards science as well as secure scientific understanding and skills. Science subject leaders, their colleagues, head teachers, children, parents and governors should be very proud."

Recognition and thanks go to Mrs Adjaye and Ms Saddington, who have worked so hard to ensure our school showed itself in its best scientific light. Our staff and children also had a crucial part to play, as the love for science and exploration came through during this process. We are very proud of this award and look forward to continuing our provision of scientific excellence.

Kind regards,

Mr Winn

Undressed Animation

With the worrying figures released by the Internet Watch Foundation in their recent annual report, it is important for us to keep the conversation around on-line safety going with children.

Undressed is a fantastic resource for younger children, free from LGfL, which includes a video, song, lyrics and a poster:
