Summer Term 2 Issue No.34

Dear Holy Trinity Community,

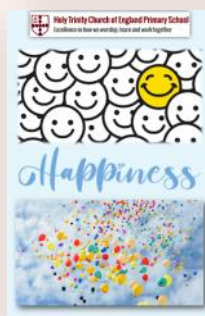

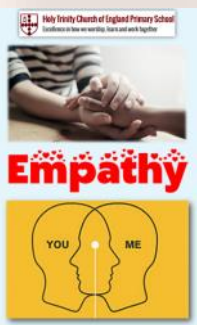

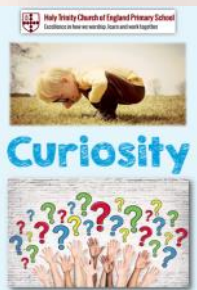

What a special Summer Music Concert it was yesterday afternoon. Thank you to all the parents and carers that attended to support the event. The range of talent and confidence on display was really special to behold. Our children and staff excelled themselves yesterday... music continues to flourish and thrive at Holy Trinity.

Our attention now turns to the next big event in our school calendar; the Holy Trinity PTFA Summer Fair tomorrow. The Fair opens at 2pm and runs until 6pm. Our MP, Bell Ribeiro-Addy, will be officially opening the Fair at 2pm and it looks set to be a fantastic event. Live music, bouncy castles, barbecue and jerk, ice creams and cold drinks, nails and tattoos... the list of attractions goes on and on. Please come and support this special event, and bring your money! All funds raised will go towards some important projects at the school next year, which will be decided upon in our next PTFA meeting in September. As ever, all parents and carers are welcome.

Next week, we will be celebrating our Reception children as they graduate from the Early Years. Year 6 will be performing their version of 'The Wizard of Oz' and having their Leaver's Ball. Finally, all children will be spending time with their new teaching team in their new classrooms on Friday 15th July. I will write to you on Friday morning to inform you of your child's class teacher and classroom for next year.

See you all at the Fair tomorrow!

Mr Winn

Faith Corner

I'm sorry if what I'm going to say seems obvious to you – maybe I'm just a bit thick... but for the past 44 years, I've never really understood why St Paul said that Love “always hopes.”

Hoping always seemed to me to be a bit flaky - as in, “I haven't done much work, I 'm not a maths whizz, I think I got most answers wrong, but hey-ho, let's hope for the best!”

Or sometimes hoping seemed to be little more than a warm feeling – like when you're playing a game and you roll the dice. “I'm hoping for a six,” you say. But the odds are stacked against you, 6:1! You might feel fuzzy when you say it, but the outcome is pure luck, and you probably won't get it however much you hope.

So when I used to read in the Bible, “Love always hopes” I thought St Paul had gone a bit soft in the head – what has hope got to do with Love.

This week, after 44 years of reading the Bible, I had to come up with an answer for assembly. Somehow, I managed to imagine three scenarios in which being hopeful would actually be loving.

1. You choose hope instead of jealousy. Your friend is going to Jamaica for their holiday. You're stuck in Tulse Hill. It would be easy to be jealous and wish they had long delays at the airport. But instead, you can hope they have a really great time and come back full of joy to share. That would be exercising hope as a deliberate act of love.
2. You choose hope instead of being grumpy. You have to sit next to someone you don't really like; you have to play in a team with someone who's no good at your sport; you have to work with someone who's not much fun. It's easy to be grumpy in these situations. But instead you can decide to be hopeful – maybe this time you'll find a way to get on better; maybe this time you can help them play better; maybe this time you can work as a team. Maybe your attitude can make the difference. That would be exercising hope as a deliberate act of love.
3. You share hope to overcome despair. When someone else is really low, then helping them to find hope requires careful listening, sensitive speaking and patient support. These things take commitment and love.

So – apologies if you already knew all this. It all seems fairly obvious to me now, but it took a long time to get there! So after all that waiting: “Here's to Hope!”

Resource - Talk Pants videos - with Makaton

Many parents will already be familiar with the Talk Pants resources from the NSPCC.

This is a resource for schools and parents which helps younger children understand that their body belongs to them.

The NSPCC have released a further 5 short videos (including another 5 with subtitles) explaining all 5 Talk Pants rules with Makaton.

This is an excellent resource and all the videos are available on YouTube. The links to the videos and to Talk Pants webpage are below.

Lambeth Key Stage One Pupils Singing Celebration @ Lambeth Town Hall

Holy Trinity's Year 2 Pupils performed at the prestigious Lambeth Town Hall, alongside other schools in Lambeth. They also shared a solo piece using British Sign Language and their own actions, not only were the event organisers impressed, but there were a few tears in the hall too!

KINETIKA BLOCO THROUGH THE FIRE

Kinetika Bloco Summer School brings young people together to play brass and woodwind instruments, steel pans, drums and dance to create a spectacular costumed show. Our theme for 2022 is Through The Fire. The last two years have brought restriction, constraint, loss, and pain. This Summer, we come together with hope. As a new spark catches, life is born again and we rise, on the edge of new beginnings: hopeful, stronger, and full of wonder. Come and be a part of building into a new future, that is yet to be written.

Performances will include Notting Hill Carnival, the London Jazz Festival and many more.
